ANSI and SPRING Singapore Services Conference Overview

This year, ANSI in partnership with SPRING, the national standards body of Singapore, planned two sessions of a services standardization conference, first on October 17-18, 2017, in Washington, DC as part of ANSI's World Standards Week, and again on November 2-3, 2017, in Singapore.

The intent has been to explore areas of services standardization of common interest to the United States and to Singapore and to determine if there are opportunities for joint national standards or international standards in these areas. By holding the conference in each location, ANSI and SPRING can each benefit their national members and stakeholders.

The U.S. conference focused on healthcare services, financial services, unmanned aircraft systems, and conformity assessment.

Participants

ANSI members and interested stakeholders including those from government, industry, business, consumer groups, and academia were encouraged to attend and share their perspectives, insights, and expertise.
