

THE CITY OF NEW YORK
OFFICE OF THE MAYOR
NEW YORK, NY 10007

April 3, 2018

Dear Friends:

It is a great pleasure to join in celebrating the American National Standards Institute's milestone 100th Anniversary.

Since its founding right here in New York City in 1918, the American National Standards Institute has stayed true to its mission to coordinate, promote, and facilitate national standardization systems. Throughout its history, ANSI's guidelines, consensus standards, and assessment systems have shaped our world, impacting businesses in nearly every industry and almost all of the products we use each day. In addition to protecting the environment and the safety and health of consumers in our own country, the Institute has helped strengthen our global economy and been a leader in encouraging organizations to comply with international standards so that goods and products can be used worldwide. In honor of its milestone centennial anniversary and upcoming celebration of World Standards Week, I applaud the Institute and all of its supporters for the indelible impact they have made here in the five boroughs and far beyond.

On behalf of the City of New York, I offer my best wishes for a wonderful anniversary celebration and continued success.

Sincerely,
