Please briefly describe the position and responsibilities of delegation members within their organization. How can they work with ANSI in the future on standards and conformity assessment issues?
2. ANSI will be sharing information with the delegation about U.S. approaches to standards and/or conformity assessment. How will the delegation use this information in its home country? How will the delegation disseminate this information to companies, academic institutions and other stakeholders in its home country?

3. ANSI, in partnership with its peer organizations around the world, has developed the StandardsPortal - an online tool to help non-U.S. audiences better understand the U.S. approach to standards and conformance. This resource is available in English and Mandarin Chinese. Please review the StandardsPortal and list any questions the delegation has that are not answered on the StandardsPortal, or suggestions to make the StandardsPortal more useful to the delegation's organization and its members/clients/constituents.
Please use this space to list at least 3 questions the delegation would like ANSI to answer during the visit. ANSI will do its best to incorporate these questions into the presentations.

nation
ANSI generally receives international delegations in its office headquarters located at 1899 L Street NW, Eleventh Floor, Washington, DC. Visits typically last approximately two (2) hours and include an overview presentation on the U.S. approach to standards and conformance, as well as time for discussion and Q&A.
The delegation visit requested will follow the format described above. I agree to pay ANSI an administrative fee of $1000 to cover expenses incurred by ANSI for the visit.
I am interested in discussing special arrangements with ANSI, such as additional topics for discussion or arranging a meeting at another location.
