Navigating the Metaverse: Standardization

In the ever-evolving digital landscape, the metaverse has emerged as the next frontier, promising boundless opportunities for connectivity, creativity, and innovation. Let's explore the pivotal role of standardization in metaverse ensuring interoperability, safety, innovation, and inclusivity.

Speaker: Robert Beideman, Chief Product Officer – GS1

2:05 PM – 2:50 PM

Panel Session: Does it always have to be a “Standard”?

The result of standards development is not always a Standard. There are different deliverables such as a Technical Report, a guide, or a white paper etc. It could be different kind of document. This panel session is going to shed light on the importance of choosing the right deliverable to ensure that the document is published on time and in correct format that can be used to effectively influence the intended outcome.

Moderator: Amanda Benedict, VP Standards, Sterilization – AAMI

Speaker: Ray Horner, Director Industry Affairs – Atkore; Jennifer Kitchen, Principal Engineer, Product Safety Standards & Advocacy, HRSG & Plants Product Safety Engineer – GE

Break

3:00 PM – 3:30 PM

Fireside Chat: Management System Standards

The management system standards (MSS) set out requirements or guidance to help organizations manage their policies and processes to achieve specific objectives (e.g. product or service quality, environmental performance, health and safety in the workplace, etc.). Those standards are developed to be applicable across different type of organizations and sizes, different sectors, and diverse cultural and social conditions. This session is going to explore the role of MSS and the implementation strategies.

Speaker (s): David Cienfuegos, Quality & Continuous Improvement Advisor – FedEx Corp; Kasper Hillgaard Mühlbach, Chief Consultant Danish Standards & Committee Manager of ISO/PC 343

3:30 PM – 3:55 PM
