ANSI FOOD SAFETY PRODUCT CERTIFICATION ACCREDITATION

The American National Standards Institute (ANSI) offers accreditation programs that demonstrate that specified requirements relating to a product, process, or services are fulfilled. The neutral, third-party accreditation process provides certification bodies with an internationally recognized measurement of quality and benchmarks by which to evaluate and improve their practices. ANSI's product certification accreditation programs have been in place for over forty years and include activities under a number of food related scopes.

As a signatory of the International Accreditation Forum (IAF) and Pacific Accreditation Cooperation (PAC) Multilateral Recognition Arrangement (MLA) for Accreditation of Product Certification Bodies, ANSI has built a strong and confident liaison with its Accredited Certification Bodies (ACBs) and Scheme owners in the private and regulatory sectors. Currently, ANSI has 34 ACBs under its Food Safety Accreditation Programs. These include:
