U.S. Standardization Center of Excellence for Critical and Emerging Technologies First Standardization Workshop

Join us for the first Standardization Center of Excellence (SCoE) Workshop to help shape the future of critical and emerging technologies (CET) standardization.

The SCoE is a transformative initiative aimed at supporting private sector-driven engagement and capacity building in the development and use of international standards.

Engage government, industry, academia, standards development organizations, and others to share expertise and insights on the development, challenges, and opportunities for CETs.

Register your interest here!

Deadline is April 15. Space is limited and all interest will be considered.
